

ACUPUNCTURE AND FASCIAL MANIPULATION® WORKSHOP

PADOVA, 7th-8th September 2019

OBJECTIVES

To provide participants with the Basic notions of acupuncture, compared with the theories of Western Medicine and with the principles of Fascial Manipulation. The Theoretical lessons of the morning explain the difference between the three medicine and also point out their points of contact. The practical lessons of the afternoon have the aim of demonstrate how often methods that use different tools and reasoning get the same results. The therapists who already use the Fascial Manipulation are going to understand that the method they are using has a millenarian clinical practice behind them.

PROFESSORS

- Prof. Carla Stecco, Orthopaedic doctor, professor of anatomy at the University of Padova
- Dr. Chenglei Fan, specialist in Traditional Chinese Medicine
- Dr. Pella Luca, expert in Oriental Medicine, Shiatsu and Japanese Moxibustion Teacher.
- Ft. Stecco Luigi, Creator of the Fascial Manipulation Method

COSTS

The cost of the seminar is €150 (+ VAT if due), including the new book by Luigi Stecco. Publication of the English Edition is scheduled for September 2019.

ADDRESSED TO:

This Workshop is open to everybody as it aims to make known the parallelism between the two methods.

Saturday 7th September from 08,30 to 18.30

- Western medicine and Fascial Manipulation
- Ordinary Meridians and Mio - fascial Sequences
- Sinew Channels and Diagonals, Spirals
- Extraordinary meridians and Catenarie-Tensori
Lunch break
- Assessment of Acupuncturist of a mio - fascial pain
- Assessment of the same patient with FM
- Treatment with acupuncture of the patient
- Clinic of disfunction of the Musculoskeletal according to Western medicine and FM

WHY TO PARTECIPATE?

From this seminar the Acupuncturist, the Fascial Manipulation Therapist, the Shiatsu Therapist etc.. can get answers and explanations of the result they get with their work.

The theoretical concepts and the practical demonstrations are going to help the various operators to adapt the clinical reasoning in the treatment of disfunction of Musculoskeletal system and of the internal apparatus. The three way of reasoning of the Western Medicine, the Chinese medicine and Fascial Manipulation will be compared both during the theoretical lessons, but especially during practical demonstrations.

Sunday 8th September From 08,30 to 18.30

- Anatomy of three internal Fascial Sequences
- Internal Pathways of Ordinary meridians
- Luo Meridians and Quadrants of Super. Fascia
- Technique of Acupuncture and of Fascial M.
Lunch break
- Acupuncture: patient with internal dysfunction
- Assessment of the same patient with FM
- Moxibustion treatment with moxibustion
- Clinic of some visceral dysfunction from the point of view of western medicine and FM

"I am surprised to discover, the exploration and contribution of the Stecco family appears to support our Chinese predecessor's concepts and technologies step by step with further innovation and development. The medical practitioners in ancient China built a Meridian and Collateral Model, which is highly effective in guiding the clinical practice of acupuncture. Nevertheless, due to the long-gone ages, the ancient language could not be correctly recognized by modern people, leading to divergent points of views. Stecco family, with their comprehension and passion for acupuncture, have built a mechanical model of Fascial Manipulation with the reference of acupuncture and verified the effectiveness by anatomy and clinical practice, which is a tremendous contribution for both Chinese traditional medicine and western medicine."

Ling Guan MD. PhD. Professor
Director of Acupuncture & Moxibustion Department,
Chinese PLA General Hospital
President of non-Medicamentous Therapy Association,
TCM Promotion and Research Society

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE INFORMATION AT:

E-mail: info@fascialmanipulation.com
institute@fascialmanipulation.com
Phone +39 049 5462902,
+39 349 2893516
Website: www.fascialmanipulation.com
www.fascialmanipulation-stecco.com

LOCATION OF THE WORKSHOP

Padova, via Cavalieri di Vittorio Veneto, 19